SKETCHES OF LITTLE OLD NEW YORK

BY O. O. McINTYRE

Telegram Bureau: Rooms 121-122 Hotel Majestic, West Seventy-second Street.

NEW YORK, April 19.—Introducing "Syrup Jack," Broadway's latest cut-up. He is the playful young man who squirts syrup on women's dresses in the subway. He ruined gowns worth $500 during the last week and is still on the job, giving the police the merry ha-ha.

He carries a rubber ball in his pocket and when a particularly well dressed woman comes near him, he squirts the syrup over her clothes and goes serenely on his way. It has been suggested that he might have been hired by the fashionable dress makers to increase their business but of course this is only a base and mean accusation without foundation. Examination has failed to reveal whether it was chocolate or some other flower. Detective Markley said it might even be molasses. He will stick to the trail.

Last summer the subway had a cut-up who would jab women with hat pins and make them scream with pain. He was caught one day by a muscular young man who manhandled his face against the cement floor of a station and then let him go.

Young Bert Hubbard, son of the late Elbert, has returned from the annual pilgrimage to the Temple of Health in Kansas City. It was a custom of his father's and the son will continue it.

There is a doctor in charge of the Temple of Health, an old mansion, and each year patients who have been cured there return for what they call a "health reunion."

Mr. Hubbard brings back a good yarn with him. The son of puritanical parents living near Kansas City had reached the age of 23 without seeing much of the world. He was about to be married and his father took him to Kansas City to see a little of the glitter of the city. He dined at the cafes, visited the theaters and other places that never had a part in his life.

When he returned he fell weeping in his mother's arms. She told him not to mind, that the world was not so bad. He had only seen the worst. "I know," he sobbed, "but there is no Santa Claus."

Charles R. Barnes, the magazine writer, has shaken Broadway for good. About a year ago he went down to Atlantic City for the week and has been there ever since. He lives in the same house with Max Marcin, the playwright, and both dislike New York.

Barnes was in town for the first time in a year last week, and only came because he was compelled to sail from here for Cuba. He used to live in Missouri and commented thusly the other afternoon before sailing:

"New York purchased $100,000 worth of ticket to the Moran-Willard fight. Yet every time a novelist needs a sucker for a character he has him hail from Missouri."

An elderly gentleman from the country was at the head line of arrivals at the Waldorf the other morning. He spent such a long time at the register that the clerk became a trifle impatient.

"Just sign your name, please," he said. "The other guests too, would like to register."

"See here, young man," exclaimed the old gentleman, "don't you try any of your 'sass' on me. I don't sign nothing I ain't read carefully. I learnt my lesson with one of them there lignin' rod slickers."

FOUR DOCTORS DISAGREED

Pains Disappeared After Use of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Wilmington, Del.—"I was suffering from a terrible backache and pains in my side, with bearing down pains and was very nervous. I was always tired, always drowsy, never could get enough sleep and could not eat. I had four doctors and each told me something different. I read of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and decided to try it. I got good results and I now feel better than I have felt for years and I am gaining in weight. I can gladly recommend it to all women."—Mrs. GEORGE W. SEBOLD, 1611 West 4th Street, Wilmington, Del.

Backache and bearing down pains are danger signals which every woman should heed. Remove the cause of these aches and pains by taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, that good old root and herb medicine. Thousands of women have testified to its virtues. For forty years it has been making women strong, curing backache, nervousness, ulceration and inflammation, weakness, displacements, irregularity and periodic pain.

If you want special advice write Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co. confidential, Lynn, Mass.
